The Meeting House is seeking teams of two adventurous individuals of the same gender to host an exciting new reality TV project that travels around the world, as part of our curriculum goal.

About the Show

Each dynamic duo will host different episodes of the show as they embark on a journey around the world to experience what it feels like to live another person's life. They will see the greatest sights, experience the most diverse cultures, and encounter the biggest problems on this planet while they journey with people very different from themselves. They will face their deepest fears, break through the biggest barriers, and discover the greatest insights needed for humans to survive into the next millennium.

- Must be comfortable with rugged travel and living conditions
- Individuals may also apply

Video Submission Information

You will need to put together a 3-5 minute video telling us a bit about yourselves, and show us why you think you would be perfect for hosting our show. We want to see why the two of you would make a great team. Please include why you would want to travel around the world and what would excite you most about this opportunity. Have someone follow you both around with a camera as you show us a taste of who you are. Interact with the camera and speak to the camera as if it is an audience who is listening to you. We want to see your personalities so please just be yourself!
